In the present study, we have analyzed in detail the effects of the human papillomavirus type 16 (HPV16) E6 oncoprotein on the p53 system. Using a yeast two-hybrid system, we were able to demonstrate that the HPV16 E6 oncoprotein induces a specific interaction between E6 and p53 in the p53/p14ARF/p16INK4 system. This interaction seems to be mediated by the COOH-terminal region of HPV16 E6 (amino acids 53-93). In a transient transfection system, the effect of HPV16 E6 on p53 levels was also investigated. The results suggest that HPV16 E6 down-regulates endogenous levels of p53, as well as of p21, in two different cell lines. Finally, we also demonstrate in this study that the HPV16 E6 oncoprotein causes an interaction with p14ARF and a concomitant decrease in the levels of p14ARF protein in vitro. Peace & Violence Peace & Violence is a 1992 play by American playwright Paul Rudnick about the impact of World War I on the United States. It is about the arrest and trial of an American pacifist named Abel Travers, who refuses to join the armed forces of the United States. Travers, whose principles were rooted in Christian nonviolence, is arrested and condemned to death in court for alleged sedition. The play is a tragedy, and it is based on Rudnick's own experience of having served as a young Marine in Vietnam. His play took him several years of writing and various revisions. Its central message is that war is not the sole province of the military, and it is not an easy topic to write about. The play was produced and directed by Ellen McLaughlin, who also stars in the play's title role. It premiered Off-Broadway at Playwrights Horizons in 1992, and opened on Broadway at the Gerald Schoenfeld Theatre, where it ran for two years. Synopsis The play opens in 1915, in a small New England town. Abel Travers, a pacifist pacifist, has just come from the neighboring town of Vernon to the former's, where he plans to watch the beginning of a boxing match. On his way, he runs into his friend
